

16th International Symposium on Functionally Graded Materials, Hartford, Connecticut, USA
August 9-12, 2020

Mini-Symposium Title: Structural health monitoring and its applications

Organizer:

Shinae Jang, shinae.jang@uconn.edu, University of Connecticut

Description:

This session will cover the recent innovations and development in structural health monitoring and its application in conjunction with functionally graded material. The scope of this session is broad covering, transportation structures, residential structures, aerospace, mechanical, biomedical structures and human factors.